

Welcome to

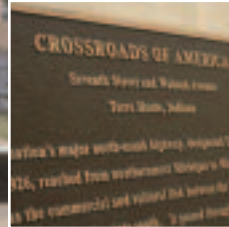

The THEDC, the area's lead economic development organization, works closely with local and state officials and other agencies to craft an attractive incentive package for your business.

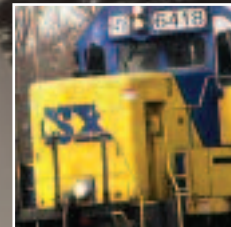

Vigo County's workforce is extremely diverse, with skilled, semi-skilled and trainable workers readily available. It is a workforce that is known for high productivity, a strong work ethic and a sense of community.

Terre Haute offers all the infrastructure requirements for business development – abundant electric power, natural gas, sewer and water, and high-speed communications.

Located at the crossroads of two of the country's busiest highways, east-west I-70 and north-south U.S. 41, Terre Haute is within a 500-mile radius of nearly 70% of the U.S. population.

Terre Haute and Vigo County are served by Terre Haute International Airport, rail service connecting to the entire U.S., Canada and Mexico, and 52 over-the-road truck lines.

A decided edge for Terre Haute is the presence of five institutions of higher education, bringing diversity and almost unlimited resources to local business and industry.
